World Diabetes Foundation/Dalberg Indian Diabetes Storytelling Lab 2021

About:

The Diabetes Storytelling Lab is looking for 50 innovative storytellers and community leaders in India to develop creative communication products that can support diabetes awareness in India.

India is home to 77 million people living with diabetes – the second highest number amongst the world’s countries. Yet, 1 in 2 people living with diabetes in India are unaware of their condition. The challenge is further exacerbated by COVID-19, as people with diabetes appear to be more susceptible to becoming severely ill with the virus.

Creative communication is needed to raise awareness around diabetes prevention in India and its links to COVID-19. In response, WDF and Dalberg Media, with support from USAID, are hosting a creative online process to generate ideas for diabetes awareness building and prevention – the Diabetes Storytelling Lab.

The lab starts in September with three online digital bootcamps. Each will last one day and introduce teams to the innovation methodology. The final sprint will take place over three days from October 15-17, one month prior to World Diabetes Day.

Prizes:

Storytelling Lab participants will work with topics such awareness building and health promotion while becoming part of a movement of passionate community leaders and storytellers collaborating to defeat diabetes. A total of 25,000 USD will be distributed to top teams to support the implementation of their ideas.

Theil Fellowship

About:

The Thiel Fellowship is a two-year, $100,000 grant for young people who want to build new things instead of sit in a classroom. It grants between 20 and 30 fellowships each year. Most Fellows do build teams during their fellowships, small groups of people working towards the same vision are the people who get stuff done. You don't need to have incorporated a company or built a full product yet, but at a minimum you'll need to demonstrate meaningful progress toward a concrete vision. Some Thiel Fellows are programmers, but others have started nonprofits, created consumer products, launched media companies, and built hardware. We look to support young people who want to bring their ideas to the world.

Eligibility:

1. Anyone aged 22 or younger is eligible to apply.
2. If you're selected you'll need to drop your present school/college in order to accept the Fellowship.

Application Deadline: Apply throughout the year
